ADVANCED FEATURES.

Automated training plan management and learning paths

Identify key skills for specific roles and deploy training plans to manage employee training requirements automatically. This also streamlines future employee on-boarding, ensuring seamless integration and skill development.

Visualise each team member's skills, making it easy to identify gaps and target development opportunities across your organisation.

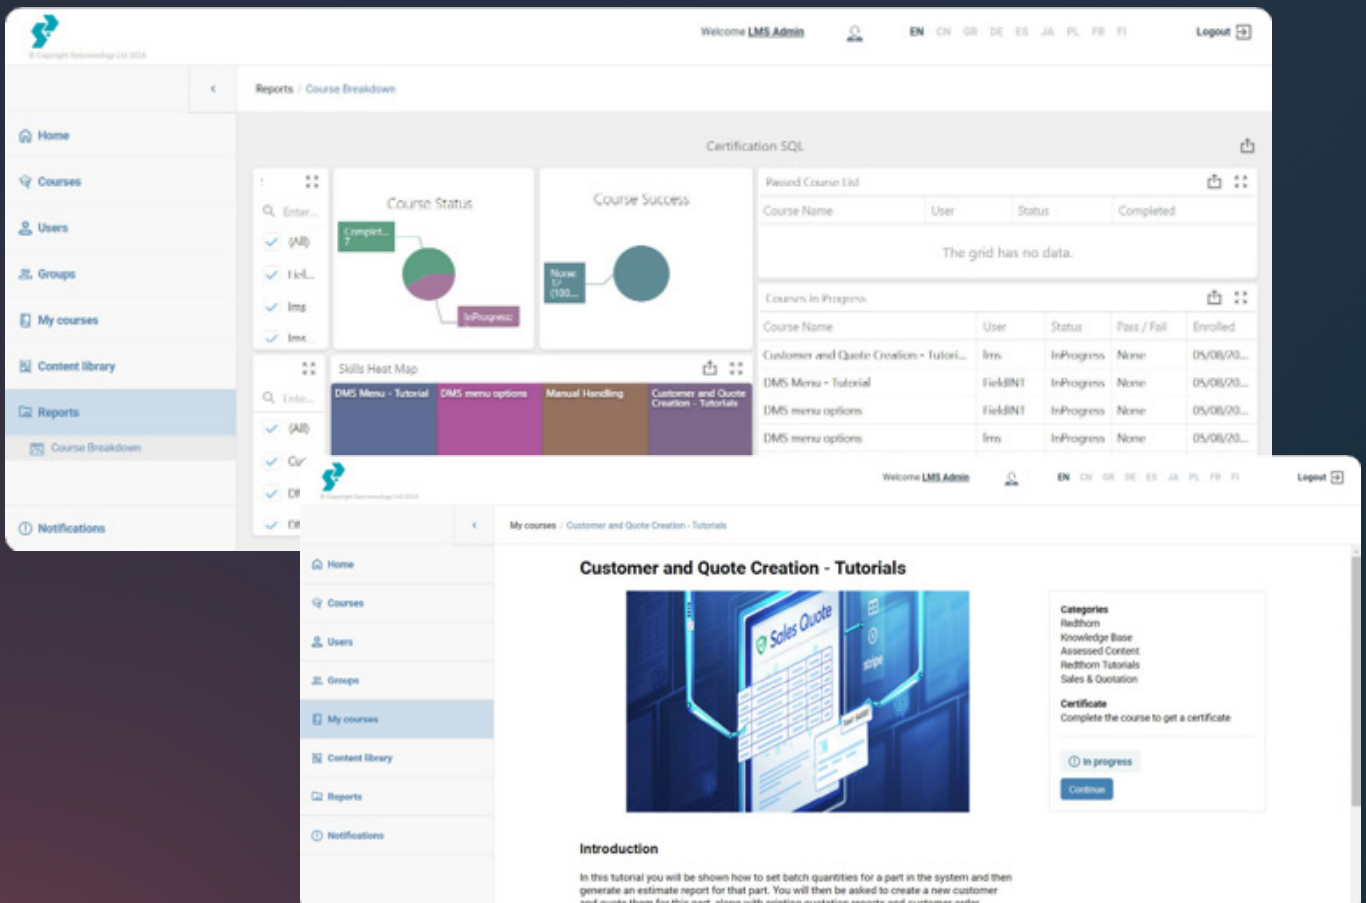

Innovative Storefront Feature

The Storefront offers a centralised hub for all your course management needs, allowing users to download content from our Central Hub of courses. Customers can set up Storefronts to suit their own company's structure, and Administrators can effortlessly manage multiple storefronts, configured to suit different site locations.

The Storefront features dynamic content notifications, alerting you to newly added courses, popular or special offer content, and discrepancies between on-site and Storefront versions. With the ability to search by category and provider, finding and managing courses has never been easier.

Data integration and reporting

Our published REST API makes it easy to link Singlepoint with data reporting applications like Power BI. You can also use tools like MS Power Automate to interact with and report on data, enhancing your insights and decision-making capabilities.

"This is a great platform for training new staff and refreshing the training of existing staff due to its global availability. The platform is built in-house by Singlepoint, so the content is tailored to our needs and the bite-size training exercises limit the impact on production services which management appreciates. However, the real stand-out value comes from the trainer support provided by the Singlepoint training team. The ability for staff to ask questions and discuss queries directly with the trainer removes all ambiguity for the attendees."
